About the Meeting House

The Meeting House is home to the Cambridge Jesus Lane Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, often known as the Quakers. Quakers first held meetings in Jesus Lane in the 1650s. Parts of the present Meeting House date from 1777 and there have been additions at various times in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Today, Quaker Friends still meet each Sunday and Wednesday for worship based in silence. We warmly welcome anyone who feels drawn to experiencing Quaker worship.
